WRITTEN EXAMINATION EXERCISES

• The exam part examines the acquisition of the theoretical background of the practical tasks with test-like tasks. The questions focus on physiological knowledge, first aid, training theory, gymnastics, individual conditioning, as well as basic pedagogical and psychological knowledge. These can include: true-false statements, single-choice, multiple-choice, closed-ended text completion, concept matching, figure recognition and completion as well as matching tasks (classification, relationship between two or three sets).

PROJECT EXERCISES

- A) Portfolio: a document compiled from the candidate's progress, results, and works, certified by the mentoring practical instructor or specialist teacher. The portfolio is developed during the entire duration of the training. Content of the portfolio: 1.) Introduction: Goals, motivations, expectations. 2.) Documents: generated documents (e.g. the products of individual and/or group work, curriculum, feedback received from teammates and trainers; photographs; videos, reflections/self-reflections; study logs, etc.) Training plan for one macrocycle of the annual training plan for the development of one selected motor skill. The examinee's own training diary: tracking and documenting the student's own physical fitness and development throughout the entire period of study. 3.) Summary: summary, analysis and (self) evaluation of the professional development path, experiences and personal and group development. Defense of the portfolio: The candidate presents the content of their portfolio to the examination committee.
- B) Conducting the training programme The examinee plans, prepares, interprets and conducts an individual or group functional training program drawn from the list of practical exercises. Each item contains: a warm-up task, a strengthening and stretching task for a specific muscle group or one focused on group functional training, as well as an endurance-building task. Professional discussion with the examination committee.
